EDUCATORS WELCOME!

Are you teaching in a school, at a university or in other educational institution?

Do you use digital tools as part of your classroom practice?

Do you want to meet others doing the same and inspire each other?

What special is in this community is that there are no barriers between secondary, higher and adult learning practices. Everyone can learn and inspire each other. The curriculum and the content may be different, but you may find a meaningful methodology, or an interesting tool.

Join our community and

Share Your Good Practice!

What happens in the project?

Community building among numerous educational institutions in Europe supports the exchange of information in this phase. The members of the network empower each other to use, share and exploit unique resources from a wealth of educational practices, within meaningful educational activities.

The community is based on peer-rating. This supports the aim to meet the educational and quality needs of these communities, supported by DigiSkills Inventory a social platform where teachers, students, parents and other community members will be able to discover, acquire, discuss and adapt e-learning resources on their topics of interest.

The DigiSkills Best Practice Guidelines will support future activities of teachers for the design and implementation of effective resource-based educational activities.
